

Tom Ireland

Tom Ireland is co-founder and managing partner of Nightstar Partners, LLC. In 2007, after over 25 years in global telecommunications, he started this software development outsourcing firm--New Jersey-based and American owned, with a solutions center in Kolkata (Calcutta), India.

Nightstar Partners specializes in application development and related offshore staff augmentation services. Nightstar is a certified Microsoft partner member of the International Association of Microsoft Channel Partners (IAMCP) and member of the New Jersey Technology Council (NJTC).

Core services provided are:

- Software architecture and design
- Code development
- Application development and maintenance
- Database design and development
- Data conversion and data entry services

Prior to starting Nightstar Partners, Tom held senior sales and marketing positions at AT&T and Concert (a joint venture between AT&T and British Telecom), and had extensive experience in start-up and corporate operations and product management, including as a co-founder of Best Conferencing. He served as a Congressional Fellow with the prestigious Brookings Institute working on legislative and economic development matters for Congress in 2005.

Tom is on the advisory board of Peerport, an online collaboration and communications platform.
